Landfills face significant challenges trying to keep maximum compaction levels as well as keeping those grades and slopes throughout the landfill. Conventional surveying in these harsh conditions can be costly and often a hardship for the surveyors as well as the site management team. Caterpillar has a product that can help you address all these concerns and many more. That product is called CAES and it stands for Computer Aided Earthmoving System.

What can this system do? CAES helps the landfill industry conserve airspace.

- For a landfill compactor, each time the wheel travels over a surface, the CAES screen changes color to acknowledge the compaction pass. CAES indicates finished areas. The operator achieves maximum effective compaction, by making only the necessary number of passes.
- Track-type tractors in landfills benefit from CAES because it indicates lift thickness of cover material and trash.

Does this system have reporting capabilities to the site office? CAES reports information wirelessly to the office computers through its innovative software suite. Additionally, CAES permits the recording of site specific storage areas such as hazardous waste, medical, industrial, organic, and other materials which require special handling or a record of their placement. All of this information is monitored and managed in the landfill office with CAES Office Software. CAES also records productivity through the mrtsmanger software and show in a screen what the operators are doing on the site with a delay of less than 1 minute from real time as well as many other features.
